McNaught, secretary of the Scottish Home Rule Association, made an elaborate statement of the grievances of the Scotch, and especially of the difficulty in passing Scotch legislation in the Imperial Parliament. Rose. Resolutions were passed expressing sympathy with the movement.

A meeting of the boot and shoe manufacturers was held at the Board of Trade building to-day for the purpose of organizing a guild. Manufacturers have a large overstock and the object of the guild is to maintain present prices.

GENERAL NEWS.

An Incendiary Fire—All Quiet at Winnipeg.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Ottawa, Nov. 7—To-day the Supreme Court met and adjourned the hearing of the Manitoba Railway case until the 21st instant, when the case comes up. Messrs. Martin and Mowat will appear here to argue it.

Belleville, Nov. 7—Baker's carriage factory with all its contents was burned here. The fire is thought to have been the work of an incendiary. Loss $4000.

Winnipeg, Nov. 7—The trial of Vale and McKittrick, charged with keeping money stolen by the Cameron Union bank-teller in their possession was concluded to-day, a verdict of "not guilty" being rendered.

All is quiet at railway crossing.

CRUELTY AT SEA.

Brutality of a Sea Captain from Cardiff, Wales.

Capt. Snow, of the American ship Heela, has been cited to appear in court at Tacoma on a charge of withholding wages, damages and giving unfit food to his crew. Fourteen of the crew swear that the captain fed them on rotten meat and potatoes which were not fit to eat. Near Cape Horn the captain struck the carpenter with some heavy instrument, breaking his jaw. A few days later he nearly killed one of the men and all of the members of the crew were beaten in a most cruel manner. When debilitated by the filthy food given them they were unable to work, every sailor was put in the hold and tied in such a manner that they could neither stand erect nor sit or lie down and in that position they were kept for forty-eight hours. When they were released one of the men whom the captain deemed refractory was tied to a stanchion for four days days without food, but during this time his scant rations were placed within sight but out of reach. When the Heela reached Acapulco and the men were so weak from ill treatment and insufficient and rotten food, the brutal captain, with the aid of Mexican troops, cast them into a dungeon and kept them confined until the vessel was ready to sail. The men appealed to the United States Consul at Acapulco, but were unable to obtain any assistance from that quarter, being told by him that he could do nothing, and that they had better rough it out.

NANAIMO NOTES.

From the Free Press.]

A fatal accident took place in the No. 5 shaft of the Wellington Collieries on Monday morning. Mr. Gustave Nelson, a large powerful man, aged 31 years, was killed by a fall of rock from the roof of the mine.

The brick work of the new building for the Bank of British Columbia, on Front street, is now completed, and is a marked improvement.

H. M. S. Espeigel arrived in Nanaimo on Monday afternoon and left yesterday morning for ball practice in the Gulf of Georgia.

A wrestling match will take place on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, either on "the Green" or on the Caledonian Grounds, between John Smith and "an unknown." The match is for $250 a side, with Mr. George Merritt as stake holder. Greco-Roman style, French rules. It is hinted that the "unknown" is either John Richardson or D. H. Cameron.

A Friend in Time of Need.

At the matinee in Portland on Saturday, Miss Lizzie Annandale, of the Abbott Opera Company, was the recipient of a magnificent floral tribute from the telegraphic fraternity of Portland, in remembrance of her generosity during the memorable strike of 1883.

Having just closed the successful season of 1882 with Miss Abbott, while resting at her home in Baltimore Miss Annandale learned that the resources of many of the telegraphers were becoming low; that some with families almost destitute and would probably be compelled to give up the fight at once, thus prejudicing the cause of all concerned. She volunteered her services, organized a company of local talent and gave a benefit, tendering the striking operators the gross proceeds at a very opportune time. At all the larger cities, wherever she goes, she is invariably tendered an ovation by her friends, the operators. Miss Annandale possesses many testimonials in the shape of diamonds, medals, etc., of their esteem.

A Success.

The French Hotel, under the management of the well known epicure, Mr. Escalet, is meeting with excellent success. All speak in glowing terms of the cuisine. The place to get the best dinner in town. Meals at all hours during the day.

THE BAZAAR.

A Large Gathering—Will Close To-Night.

The attendance at the bazaar last night was very large and a handsome amount was realized from the sale of flowers, fancy work and other articles. The ice cream and lemonade stands were well patronized. Misses Sehl, Madigan and McTeigh presided in these booths. The fancy work tables attracted much attention. The ladies in charge disposing of many cheap and useful articles. The wheel of fortune also attracted a large number of people and will aid materially in assisting towards the financial success of the bazaar. Three raffles took place last evening. The Bride, a beautiful wax doll, was won by Miss Laura Morrison, daughter of Captain Dan Morrison. A toilet set fell to Rev. Father Van Nevel. Mr. W. Jordon won a splendid toilet cushion. At noon today the dining room was well patronized. This evening the bazaar will be brought to a close. The ladies connected with the worthy object are making preparations for a large attendance. The raffles will take place at 10 o'clock and all ticket holders are requested to be present.

The Yeoman of the Guard.

Many who have visited the Tower of London know that sublime individual the "Yeoman of the Guard," who in his quaint uniform of a by-gone age conducts you over the Tower, and points out in his showman like manner the beauties of that historic pile. Especially in front of the armory, when he says: "These are the guns taken at the Battle of the Pyramids by Sir Ralph Abercrombie and yonder is the Bloody Tower!" The Yeoman of the Guard is vulgarly called a "beef-eater." He is to be found at levees and drawing-rooms in the vicinity of the throne room acting as a buffer between royalty and the crush. His dress, a round velvet hat with band of ruching of red ribbon with trunk hose, shoes and buckles, a patri-colored coat or gown with ruffled lace collar, broad girdle and the silver or red device V. R. on breast and back with a halberd in his hand makes the individual attractive The breast must be covered with tokens of his presence on many a well fought field, fighting "for England, home and beauty" beyond the seas. He acts as warden of the Tower and at nine o'clock every night bearing the great keys of the Tower, escorted by a file of Foot Guards he approaches the main gate of that fortress. The guard is turned out. The officer in command challenges "who comes there?" The "Yeoman" answers in solemn tones, "keys." "What keys?" "Queen Victoria's keys." "God Bless Queen Victoria's keys," replies the officer. All the guard say "Amen," the drums roll as the guard presents arms to the "Yeoman of the Guard" and Her Majesty's keys. The gates are then locked, all who are out must stay out and all who are inside cannot go out without an order from the Constable of the Tower which is very hard to obtain, the Constable, generally an old field marshal and a peer of the realm, being away at his ease down in the country. The "yeoman of the guard" is what is called a sinecure. Especially is it so with the fellow appointed state executioner. They are well paid and are selected from discharged non-commissioned officers who have served the Crown "beyond the seas" and have went through a campaign or two. They are a jolly lot, very fond of the fair sex and children, and like their beer and pipe in moderation. You'll see him to-morrow night at the Victoria.

Nanaimo Assizes.

[Before Hon. Justice Crease.]

The following gentlemen were sworn in as grand jurymen: A G Horne (foreman), Jas Dunsmuir, W H Coburn, Joseph Ganner, S B Hamilton, Thomas Hirst, W A Horne, James Hill, C W Horth, W A Lindsay, A McKnight, Sam'l Price, D S R Roberts, Joseph Ramsay, Joseph Trumpter, A Uren and Thomas Wall.

True bills were brought in against Franklyn Green and Suiquam on charges of murder. The first case taken in hand was the charge against Green. James Holmans, an Indian named Snow, and Charley Ridley gave evidence for the prosecution. No evidence was given for the defense and Green made no statement.

The learned Judge then charged the jury at some length, showing that the question for the jury to decide, was whether the shooting of Jim was necessary to secure his arrest.

The jury retired and in a few minutes returned with the verdict that Green was justified in shooting Jim.

His Lordship ordered a verdict of "not guilty" to be recorded, and said he quite concurred in the verdict, although he thought that Green had shown some recklessness in his act. His Lordship also animadverted strongly on the fact that Ridley had failed to report to the constables that Jim was willing to give himself up to the authorities.

Sinequam, a Hesquet Indian from the West Coast of Vancouver Island, was then arraigned for killing and slaying an Indian boy named Moise. The evidence was extremely lengthy and went to show that through Indian superstition the prisoner killed the boy. The case is still going on.

WE GIVE IT UP—WHO PROSECUTES?

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—I hear it stated on the streets that the Attorney-General, who is looked to, to set the law in operation, can if he feels so inclined, refuse to prosecute in the case of criminal libel recently investigated at the police court. The practice in England, if I am not mistaken, is that the Crown becomes the prosecutor after a prima facie case has been established in the magistrate's court. Can you state what is this correct practice here? LAW.

Dogged by Detectives.

Private advices from New York state that Sir J. M. D. Thompson and Sir Adolphe Caron, who went there on a pleasure trip are having a decidedly unpleasant time. This is the result of the work of the "Ottawa liar" who represented that they went to the States as secret Republicans. The two ministers are watched by detectives of both the political partiest and a small army of reporters.

Fell With a Crash.

Workmen are engaged in removing the verandah from the Occidental building at the corner of Fort and Government streets. Whilst engaged in removing the portion over Mr. Short's gun store this morning the verandah fell suddenly, breaking the concrete sidewalk. Mr. Geo. Bishop had a narrow escape when the verandah fell.

San Francisco, Nov. 7—Early this morning Thos. J. Gallagher, a well-known attorney of this city, about 45 years of age, while under the influence of liquor, jumped from the third story window and was fatally injured.

THE DEAD ALIVE.

London, Nov. 4—The announcement of the death of John M. Schleyer, the inventor of Volapuk, is contracted by Schleyer himself. He says he has been dangerously ill and even received the last sacraments of the church, but has been cured by the baths at Baden.

THE SACKVILLE DISMISSAL.

London, Nov. 6—Times says: The "blue book" confirms our previous opinion and it emphasizes Lord Sackville's indiscretion.

The Daily News says: The "blue book" on the Sackville affair considerably improves the position of President Cleveland and Secretary Bayard. It was Lord Salisbury's error in not perceiving that the recall of Sackville involved no personal discredit.

The Standard considers the "blue book" acquits the Foreign Office and shows that Lord Salisbury acted with dignity and discretion and removes the only extenuation possible to plead for Cleveland.

SACKVILLE WEST AVENGED.

New York, Nov. 7—The Press News Association has an early London cable which says the general feeling is that Sackville West has been avenged.

FROM NEW WESTMINSTER.

Prisoners Liberated — Debentures Authorized—Moody, Etc.

Special to THE TIMES.]

New Westminster, Nov. 7—The bark Newsboy completed loading her cargo last evening.

The parties arrested yesterday on suspicion of the attempted murder of H. Harvey, were released to-day, there being no evidence against them. No further clue.

The city council passed a resolution authorizing the Mayor to issue debentures under the Ferry Service and Workshops by-law, the proceeds thereof not exceeding $15,000, to be deposited in the Bank of British Columbia to the credit of the trustees of the Westminster & Southern Railway.

Mr. Moody's meetings yesterday, last night and to-day were as successful in point of attendance as predecessors. Much interest is manifested by the audience in the proceedings on all occasions. He will preach his farewell sermon to-morrow morning.

A Rich Housekeeper.

The housekeeper of Warwick Castle, the historic residence of the Earls of Warwick, has just died and bequeathed in her will the sum of $350,000 to the present Earl. The castle is of great interest to tourist visitors from all parts, possessing as it does momentoes of the great "king maker," Guy of Warwick, and other matters of interest connected with the history of England. This enormous sum was amassed no doubt by the accumulation of fees and donations, received from visitors. Hamilton once offered a handsome sum for the "king-maker's" sword, and when indignantly refused by the janitor, replied with Yankee sweetness that he would have a better one made, which he would exhibit as the genuine article and swear that the one at Warwick Castle was bogus. Warwick Castle is found in the story, being the principal scene of Sir Walter Scott's Kenilworth.

Not Badly Damaged.

The Alaskan arrived in Seattle on Monday after having had a stormy time of it while trying to sail to Portland. She had no more than got outside the Sound when the weather became stormy and upon reaching a point near Flattery rocks Captain Anderson determined to return inside, not having coal enough to last him through the trip should he be delayed by bad weather. The water became so rough that as the vessel settled in a trough of the sea a tremendous wave struck upon the after-guard, forcing loose the planking in such a manner that the waves washed on the guard and more or less water made its way into the hold. The damage done was but slight, and the only danger lay in the waves tearing loose the boxes holding the sheaves on which the rudder chains moved. The boat will be repaired at Seattle and so soon as the weather becomes more settled will be taken to Portland.

Dr. Dawson's Opinion.

Dr. G. M. Dawson, who has returned to Ottawa, says that he found that mining and prospecting were being tentatively carried on all through the Kamloops district. He himself has little doubt that the district is rich in minerals. Mines located near the line of the Canadian Pacific railway promised to contain valuable deposits of gold and silver ore, but there was no reason to believe that districts more remote were not equally rich in mineral wealth. The successful development of one or two mines in the immediate vicinity of the line of railway would give a great impetus to mining in that country. Platinum was found at some points along with the gold.

The Medical Council.

The medical council of British Columbia is in session at Vancouver. Victoria is represented by Drs. Milne and Davie, Kamloops by Dr. Tunstall, New Westminster by Dr. Smith, and Vancouver by Dr. McGuigan. These constitute a board of examiners. There are five candidates for examination.

THE LATE EMPEROR'S DIARY.

We have before us a copy of "the only complete and unabridged edition" of the suppressed diary of the late Emperor Frederick, "who being dead yet speaketh," as published by the Pall Mall Gazette. This diary is bound to play a great part in the European history of the future. To-day it forms a topic for conversation amongst the politicians of every civilized land. Prince Bismarck suppressed it in Germany, denouncing it a forgery, although everyone, (himself probably included), believes in its authenticity. We do not wonder that the great Chancellor endeavored to suppress the English publication, as well as the German edition, furnishing as it does indisputable evidence against his diplomacy and statesmanship. In his appeal to the Emperor he gives a most emphatic denial to the assertions in the diary relating not only to himself, but also to some of the transactions outside of politics. He denounces the document as a "calumny," in order to work upon the feelings of a proud, head-strong son, in the hope that he will retain his hitherto undisputed reputation in the eyes of his Imperial master and that of the German people. He appeals to the respect for the deceased' relatives, and almost accuses the late Emperor of treason when he states: "If it were genuine, it would, in my opinion came under article 92 of the Penal Code, which runs thus —whoever wilfully makes public state secrets or intelligence whereof the safe-keeping is essential to the welfare of the German Empire,' &c. The document, however, in its full text has been given to the world and the unbiased opinion of all classes is that the diary is genuine notwithstanding what Prince Bismarck may say to the contrary. Bismarck states in his protest and appeal to the present Emperor, that the Crown Prince was outside of politics in 1870-1, and therefore could know but little of state secrets. This must be looked on as one of the little jokes the grim chancellor is in the habit of getting off now and then. The diary indicates that the deceased was perfectly well acquainted with all the political intrigues of the period. It commences on the 11th July, 1870. On the 13th July, there is a record of an interview with Bismarck, who was assured of peace being maintained owing to the withdrawal of Prince Leopold from Spain. On the 15th July, when Ollivier's speech appeared in Berlin, the King wanted only the 7th and 8th corps mobolized along the French frontier. But the Crown Prince advised the moblization of the whole army which was done. He says of the moment: "I called the King's attention to the Wacht am Rhein, and at this moment everyone felt the importance of the poet's words." How simple, and dignified. No boast, bluster or bragadocia. The Crown Prince being detailed to the command of the southern army, he joins the command. The diary contains very little of note in a political sense till we come to the entry of 29th July: "Karlsruhe, Baden—Our chief thought is how, after peace has been secured the liberal development of Germany shall be continued." This entry must have been the first conception of the great German union of north and south. Then, after the engagement at Worth, Aug. 6th we read: "80,000 French; I have 100,000 men. MacMahon's tough resistance, gradual retreat while fighting, was admirable, but he left me in possession of the field. * * * At half-past four was able to announce our victory to the King. * * * The co-operation of the South Germans has served to unite the various troops the consequences will be of enormous importance if we seriously intend not to let the moment slip by unused." How distinctive of the soldier, giving every credit to his beaten enemy. The far-seeing politician observes the prospect of a German unity. On the 16th July, when nominated to command the South German army, the Prince saw before him a most difficult task as he said: "To fight with troops that do not like us (Prussians)." The battle of Worth had worked wonders. It united North and South Germany; the successful resistance offered to the invader had united the people, and from the battle of Worth may be dated the birth of the subsequent unity. Roggenbach, who was serving as a Major of the Bavarian reserve, we are told on August 6th, had several conversations with the Crown Prince on the subject of a union, who says: "Have had several conversations with Roggenbach. I asked him to write down their subjects for me briefly and clearly, and if possible in paragraphs. His proposals are worthy of notice, although I cannot put them down in exact language, and, indeed, am often of a quite opposite opinion. This is quite natural in an interchange of views about the future formation of Germany at a time when as yet it is not possible to recognize the importance of the victories I have won. I cling to the conviction that after the peace it will be impossible for us to content ourselves with simply pointing the way to new efforts towards national unity, but we are also bound to offer the German people something whole and palpable, and we must therefore strike the iron of the German Cabinets while it is still hot." Here we have the scheme and proposals for a German unity discussed between the Crown Prince and a Major of the Bavarian reserves, without any reference in the slightest to Count Von Bismarck, or any suggestions from him. At the council of war, held at Pont-a-Mousson, Bismarck is described as "moderate and by no means sanguine." Passing over the pathetic account of the surrender of the fallen Emperor, Napoleon III., at Sedan, we come to that of Sept. 3rd, at Douchery: "Bismarck visits me. We retain Alsace under German administration, either for the Bund or the Empire. The Imperial idea scarcely touched on yet. Noticed that he is only favorably to it on certain conditions. He cautioned me not to be in a hurry, although I am convinced it must come to this. Matters are developing in this direction, and can only turn out the more favorably in consequence of this victory. * * * My anxiety is that the result of the war may not fulfil the justifiable expectations of the German people." The invasion of France succeeds the cessation of Alsace-Lorraine. Paris is surrounded. At Versailles in the Prefecture, on Sept. 20th, we find this prophetic entry: "While contemplating these gaudy appartments, in which so much mischief for Germany was devised and decided on, and in which the paintings hung around mockingly represent her (Germany's) disintegration, I cherish the firm hope that the restoration of the Kaiser and Reich will be celebrated in this very place." We now come to the Great Kaiser question on 30th September. We have it announced that there is "good news from Delbruck to Bismarck's surprise. I address His Majesty on the Kaiser question." On the 18th October we "find the demand for a constitution uniting all German States from the Grand Duke of Weimar. That must follow, but first of all, and at once, Germany wants a monarchial head. I find that there were some evil purposes against England; that is now past; but who can tell whether the prevailing predilection (among us) for Russia and America may not yet add fuel to (our) hatred of England." The Alabama claims were at that time undecided, hence the enmity of America against England. Still the entry shows clearly the national feeling against Britain, her free laws, her free press, her free parliament and free people. While the Kaiser question was being discussed by the German potentates and their representatives, we find Bismarck always somewhat antagonistic where his views and ideas were not considered. At last Count Bismarck threatens to resign, "because the question of the Kaiser and an upper house had been discussed at all, as offence had thus been given to Bavaria and Wurtemberg. I said it was Dalwigk (Bavaria) who had broached it. Bismarck averred that my opinions thus expressed could only prove hurtful, saying that the Crown Prince should not give vent to views of this kind. I protested in most emphatic manner, &c." Bismarck fought determinedly against the views or the interference of the Crown Prince, who told him when both had cooled down a bit: "That I could not be expected to remain indifferent in view of a world-historic opportunity which was being neglected." Glancing at the bombardment of Paris and the proclamation of the Imperial Kaiser and Konig in the establishment of the German Empire on the 18th Jan., 1871, in spite of the tardy opposition from the man that afterwards became Chancellor of the Empire, we notice throughout the diary, from the time when German unity was first broached, an undercurrent of hatred to England and her institutions. This is more marked where the tone of the English press chimes in on the subject of German unity The fallen Emperor, who was now a prisoner for some months, as we are told by the Crown Prince, "quietly seeking an approachment with us, moderation of the peace conditions of promise of a common war against England," like a desperate gambler places his last stake on the board. England's Crimean allies had nearly all abandoned her one by one. The treaty of Paris, 1856, had become a dead letter. The treaty of Vienna, 1815, was also about to be violated. Belgium was to be absorbed. The fallen Emperor would assist first in deserting his ally and then helping to assist the nation that caused his overthrow in the filching of a slice of the European continent. How lowly must the man have sunk, even in his own estimation, when his mind could give thought to such proposals, can easily be surmised. The great chancellor has been lashed by the press unmercifully, and shorn of his laurels and in face of the facts as detailed in the "suppressed" diary of the late Emperor, he cuts a less imposing figure than formerly.

FROM VANCOUVER.

The Mayoralty—A Jap's Row—Suicide and Drowning.

From our own Correspondent.)

Vancouver, Nov. 6—This morning we were greeted with a clear sky and bright sunshine which glistened most beautifully on the snow-capped mountains to the north.

A requisition is being largely signed requesting Ald. Caldwell to become a candidate for the Mayoralty of Vancouver. He has been a resident of the place for many years and is well and favorably known to the citizens and if elected to to the chief magistracy of the town will doubtless maintain his high reputation for honesty, justice and true integrity of character.

Saturday morning a number of Japs who inhabit a cabin near the Hastings mill, drank so freely to the health of their Emperor, whose birthday they were celebrating, that they became over zealous in their demonstrations and ended in a row, in which one received a severe cut in the back of the neck and under the jaw in such close proximity to the jugular as to be unpleasant. Another was cut in several places about the body, but not seriously. A physician dressed their wounds, and the police have been exercised in the search of the offender but have not yet secured him.

Yesterday the body of an Indian woman named Chach-Wah-Seeus was found by Captain Savary, of the Nellie Taylor, floating near the Hastings mill. When found the body was still warm and supple, showing that life had not long been extinct. The captain took the body to the city wharf and notified the police. In the afternoon an inquest was held. Chief Stewart stated that so far as known the deceased, in company with two other klootchmen, left the rancherie near Hasting's mill about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon to visit her husband at Moodyville and that was all that was known of her until found. Evidence of a very contradictory and unsatisfactory nature was given by Annie, Marry, Rarry and Baby, all Fort Rupert Indians. The inquest was adjourned at 5 o'clock until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

This morning W. B. Steele, an employee of C. P. R., found Henry Sheppard hanging in his cabin opposite the Brunette sawmill yard, Westminster avenue. The police were at once notified and the body taken in charge. It appears that the deceased had not been seen since October 27th, and Steele fearing that something was wrong called at Sheppard's cabin. The unfortunate man had removed all his clothes and carefully folded them up. He then raised himself on some blocks and made one end of a rope fast to the beams and the other he tied around his neck and kicking away the blocks was left hanging a few inches from the floor. When found decomposition had set in. In his pockets were found $15.60 and a silver watch and chain. Deceased has no relatives in this city, but has a cousin in Victoria. An inquest will be held. X.

OUR MUSICAL SOCIETIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—On reading the very brilliant (?) criticisms and remarks of Demi Semi Quaver in your issue of Saturday, I noticed one paragraph which I cannot allow to pass unnoticed, and I would suggest, that in future, to be more just, D. S. Q. should try and acquaint himself with facts, and not take things on hearsay only. Is the great critic (?) not aware that there are already four musical societies in Victoria? Three of these are private, the society formed to practice the opera of Erminie being one. This society was started by several ladies and gentlemen, who have been instrumental in getting up operas in the past, and fully a month after the Victoria Choral Society was formed, so that there was ample time for those taking part in Erminie to have joined the other had they so desired. The writer is well aware, that nearly all those who are assisting in the opera, would not have joined the choral society under any circumstances, and we have refrained from asking many of the members of that society for fear of creating a diversion. Another thing is that the promoters have endeavored to bring together those known to be interested enough in opera to be regular and punctual in attendance, as we do not wish people "dropping in until nearly nine," and probably in the end not taking part at all. No effort has been made to keep vocalists from joining the Choral Society, and I certainly see no reason why they should not give an opera as well as D. S. Q. says (and of course he knows) they are quite capable. Moreover we choose to do as we please, and our advice to D. S. Q. is in future to criticise public matters and let private affairs alone. In conclusion we might say that Prof. Sharpe has consented to conduct the opera and has entered most zealously into the work.

ERMINIE.

Victoria, Nov. 4th.

VAN IN A NEW ROLE.

President Van Horne a "Mind-Reader" of No Small Degree.

Minneapolis Tribune: Speaking of the psychological influence of one mind over another, so puzzling and unexplainable to the most coldly skeptical on the subject, the power, whatever it is, is not confined to seedy "professors" who gave exhibitions in museums. A great many people have it in a high degree who make no display of their gifts in that direction and who would not for the world make a show of themselves. One would hardly expect to find a railroad president in the catalogue, but it is a fact that William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific, has an extraordinary knowledge of knowing what is going on in other people's minds. During the recent trip over the "Soo" road Mr. Van Horne formed one of the party. Fred Underwood, of the Soo road, brought up the subject of mind reading and gave an account of the Canadian president's exploits.

"That's all nonsense," said Gen. Washburn, "it's one of your stories, Underwood."

"Well, let's make a test," said Underwood.

It was agreed, and Mr. Van Horne, sitting at one end of the car, asked Gen. Washburn at the other end to think of something or write something and he would tell him what he had written. Gen. Washburn drew a map of the site of the proposed new union depot, which Mr. Van Horne immediately reproduced, without changing his seat or a word having been said.

"But you have left Washington avenue out of your map," said Gen. Washburn.

"Yes, and you have left it out of yours, too," said another of the party, looking over Gen. Washburn's shoulder.

The two diagrams were as nearly identical as hasty drawing could make them.

Another incident of the same kind was told. Mr. Van Horne one morning at breakfast in the Plankinton House in Milwaukee, had opposite him a man who was pretty nearly tipsy. Two ladies who were at the same table also observed the inebriated guest and wrote back and forth, telling each other what they thought of his condition. A few days afterwards while going up the road in his private car, the train was blockaded by snow and Mr. Van Horne's clerk reported that there were two ladies in the next car without visible means of support until the train reached a station. They were invited into the President's car to dine with him, and proved to be the same ladies he had met in the Plankinton. The subject of mind reading came up, and to illustrate his power, Mr. Van Horne offered to reproduce the notes that had passed between them at breakfast. He did so, but the consternation of the ladies was so evident as the developments proceeded that the subject was dropped. They didn't want their correspondence that morning reproduced.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Cable and American Dispatches—Interesting Items.

Los Angeles, Nov. 6—The Express this evening discloses the name of the author of the celebrated Murchison letter. It is given as Francis G. Haley, a former native of New York, living two miles from the town of Pomona. The letter was written to Minister West, says the Express, "entirely of his own notion and to obtain Lord Sackville's opinion upon the questions set forth in the letter. He was in collusion with no other person, and had little expectation of receiving an answer. When it came he kept it three weeks before showing it to anyone."

THE EAST AFRICAN SLAVE TRADE.

London, Nov. 6—In the House of Lords to-day, Lord Salisbury stated that England had assented to co-operate with Germany to prevent the export of slaves and import of arms on the coast of East Africa. France would also co-operate, but the combined fleet would form a blockade and have the right to search vessels sailing under any flag.

LORD SALISBURY DISGUSTED.

London, Nov. 6—Mr. Buckle, editor of the Times, had a protracted interview with Lord Salisbury yesterday, presumably with reference to the proceedings before the Parnell commission, and it is wispered that the premier expressed his disgust at the weakness of the Times' case as presented by the attorney-general and as revealed by subsequent testimony.

THE BRITISH LEGATION AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Nov. 6—It is unlikely that Miss Belle Wilson, who is to marry Mr. Herbert, second secretary of the British legation in this city on the 27th of this month, will preside at the legation here for any length of time, if at all. In the event of there being a lengthy interregnum between the departure of Lord Sackville and the arrival of the new minister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Edwards will start for this country by early steamer. The first secretary of the legation is absent on a three months' leave, expecting to be back by February 1st, 1889, but in case of necessity he will be on hand to represent Great Britain in Washington.

JOHN BRIGHT BEDRIDDEN.

London, Nov. 6—John Bright is in a critical condition. He has not been able to leave his bed for more than [illegible]. His mind is clear and he has reports of the Parnell Commission read to him daily.

ALIEN CLERKS.

San Diego, Nov. 5—The exposure of the fact that Postmaster Norman had in his employ British alien letter carriers and clerks, contrary to the express stipulations of the postal service, resulted in the tender of the resignation of Joseph Coalthurst and his brother to-day.

MINISTER WEST'S DISMISSAL.

Official Correspondence on the Subject—Simply a Plot.

London, Nov. 6—Papers in reference to the Sackville incident have been issued from the Foreign Office. They contain correspondence between Lord Salisbury and Lord Sackville concerning the latter's dismissal from Washington. On the 27th of October Lord Salisbury cabled to Lord Sackville as follows:

"Mr. Phelps, who is staying at my house, informs me that Bayard's request to recall you is not based upon the Murchison letter, but upon an interview which you granted newspaper correspondents. I replied that I was glad the report was untrue that your recall was due to the letter which was made public only by the betrayal of confidence, and that it was hardly practicable to lay down as a principle that a diplomatic representative should be prohibited from expressing, even privately, any opinion regarding events passing in a country to which he was accredited. The language of an interview is different, and you must be taken as intending it for publication. However, before admitting the necessity for your recall, I am bound, in justice to you, to know the alleged objectionable language, and I have asked Mr. Phelps for a copy of the interview in order to ascertain from you whether you were accurately reported. Then I will lay the matter before my colleagues. Mr. Phelps replied that he had not received a copy, but would take steps to procure one. Consequently it is understood that until that copy is received I will not answer Mr. Bayard's request for your recall."

Lord Sackville replied on the 28th of October as follows: "The letter which I answered was a political Republican plot. I have mailed a full explanation of it to you. If my recall is demanded it is due to the elections here. I beg to express my deep regret for what has occurred."

Mr. Bayard, whom I saw to-day, said he regretted the incident very much. He accepted by disclaimer that it was neither my thought nor intention to interfere in the domestic policy of the country. It was a campaign trap, but he frankly told me that I had been indiscreet. I expressed my deep regret for the incident and Mr. Bayard assured me that he bore me no ill will."

"My Wife is a Terror!"

Said a mild-tempered man in our hearing. "She snaps and snarls, spanks her children, and finds fault continually. I can't bear it any longer." Don't be too severe on her, my friend; you little realize her sufferings. She has lost her former sweet disposition, and ill-health is the cause. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will make her well. For female diseases, functional derangements, bearing-down pains, and the long list of ills that render women miserable, no medicine can compare with this. It is the only medicine for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown—to-day it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its' cures are marvelous. *

The Chinese Suicide.

A short time ago a young Chinese merchant named Kwong On Wo, suicided at Kamloops, no apparent cause could at the time be assigned for the rash act. It now seems that there was a young Chinese married woman who fell in love with the deceased As the crime of adultery is considered a great disgrace amongst the higher class of Chinese the folly of his passion prayed so very much on his mind that he determined to end his life. We are in the dark regarding what were the feelings of the fair tempter when she learned of the tragic end of her lover, or as to how the cause of the suicide of Kwong On Wo became the property of the public.

Wash House Burned.

At 12:30 o'clock this morning the firemen were called to the corner of Fort and Quadra streets. The Chinese wash house on the south-west corner of the street was burning brightly when the firemen arrived on the scene and a short time was lost in connecting with an underground hydrant. Three streams of water were turned on the building and the fire was under control at 1 o'clock. The residence of Mr. James Eckersley on Quadra street, had a narrow escape also the store occupied by Mr. Papst. The wash-house was almost burned down about three weeks ago. The occupants state that the fire occurred through the negligence of two Chinese boys sleeping in the attic. They went to bed leaving a lamp burning which either exploded or was knocked over. The building was owned by Dr. Morrison. A large quantity of clothing was burned but the Chinese removed a number of baskets filled with clothes to a wash house on View street above Douglas street. One of the firemen became very ill at the fire and was removed to the engine house where he recovered in a short time. The firemen received very much praise for the manner in which they handled the blaze and prevented the fire from spreading to adjourning property.

OUR TOWN MAJOR.

The Standard Pole—Choral Society Opera, &c., &c.

The pole of the Standard has been fixed up again. It has been spliced and braced with a few "pick me up's." When he goes to write up coal again he need not dive down into the hold. Coal is high, so are a great many other things, especially when they lose their sea legs and heads by imbibing too much of that supposed remedy against sea sickness, brandy neat. Like the hatchway, though, you may fail to see it.

Bravo! bravissimo! that's the way to do it. If you appreciate an artiste on the stage, shower down your floral contributions. It is spirited, spontaneous, and if only a withered flower is more appreciative than basketfuls of bouquets handed up by the messenger boy. The Major is glad you have taken his advice in this.

The Major sometime ago called attention to the want of a choral society. One has since sprung into existence. It should be encouraged. The membership is fast increasing and we are anxiously looking forward to the first public performance of the society. While encouraging the professional we should not forget the amateurs. The costumes may not be as elaborate, but the talent may be and very often is. We mustn't despise the amateur. THE TOWN MAJOR.

POLICE COURT.

[Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q.C.]

Robert Irving was charged with committing an aggravated assault on his wife, Agnes Irving.

Mr. H. G. Walker appeared for the defense.

Supt. Sheppard said he would ask for a remand for three days. The woman was in bed and the doctor says she cannot leave her bed until ordered.

Mr. Walker—It is unnecessary for the woman to appear. The prisoner pleads guilty.

His Honor—Should the woman die and I tried and convicted him for aggravated assault he would get off very easily with perhaps a month's imprisonment. I could not sentence him under the circumstances and must remand the case.

Mr. Walker—I hope your Honor will make a note of it that we plead guilty.

His Honor—The prisoner was not asked to plead. It is a pity to see a fine looking man like him brought before me on a charge of wife-beating. I hope the woman will get well and I grant the remand.

Thomas Burgess was charged with being drunk.

His Honor—Is the man sober. I think it would be as well to postpone the case until to-morrow.

Prisoner—I am sober now and I plead guilty. Prisoner said he came from Ontario and arrived on the steamer last night.

His Honor—Where did you come from, what part of Ontario?

Prisoner—Bowmanville, your Honor.

His Honor—There are no poor men at Bowmanville and if you got drunk there they would put you in gaol.

Prisoner—They sell different liquor there.

His Honor—The liquor used in this city is brought from Ontario.

Prisoner—Well, if it is, it has a different effect.

His Honor—Well, considering that you have a ticket for Tacoma I will let you go this time.

Joseph Phœnix, on remand from Tuesday on a charge of supplying liquor to Indians, was again remanded until to-morrow morning.

Johnny, a Fort Rupert Indian, was fined $5 for drunkenness.

John Blackmore was charged with being drunk.

Supt. Sheppard said the children from prisoner's had been to the police complaining of his treatment; his wife was sick in bed and the prisoner was arrested because his wife was afraid of him. He was sober now and might be allowed to go provided he promised to keep sober.

His Honor gave the man a good lecture and allowed him to leave the court-room.

THE ROSE OF CASTILE.

A Delightful Performance—Bohemian Girl To-night—New Opera.

A large, enthusiastic and brilliant audience was present at the Victoria Theatre last night, drawn thither by the desire to hear one of Balfe's most charming operatic creations, the Rose of Castile. In the role of the Queen of Spain Emma Abbott was at the best; she sang her score with all the enthusiasm and artistic force which is so characteristic of all her work. She was simply herself and she threw all the archness and coquetry into her personation for which the part gives such scope. Her flute-like notes were admirably brought out in the different songs and ballads in which the opera abounds, and her trills and runs and cadenzas brought the large audience to her feet in unbounded enthusiasm Miss Annandale as Carmen gave another evidence of her artistic ability. She made a most enticing boy and acted the role to perfection. The rich, round tones of her deep contralto were excellently brought in her songs, and in the ensembles, and she received several merited recalls. Senor Michelena in the tenor role of Manuel was as handsome as a picture, and he sang most artistically, capturing the audience by the dash and spirit, and the exquisite sweetness of his voice in the Muleteer song which won an encore and several bravo's from the house; Wm. Broderick as Don Pedro was fortunate in having a role in which his deep sonorous bass voice was given free scope. He sang throughout with a depth of expression and a sympathetic force that captured the house. Walter Allen as Don Florio was a most amusing piece of comedy and delighted the audience present. The chorus and orchestration were well sustained and all that could be asked for. To-night the romantic and tuneful opera "Bohemian Girl" will be given with Emma Abbott as Arline, a part in which she will again be seen to great advantage, and her singing of the favorite airs of this popular opera have won the highest praises. Senor Michelena, Annandale and the entire company with Mr. Allen in the comedy role of Devilshoof will make the production one of the most delightful of the engagement. To-morrow night will in reality be a red-letter night of the engagement inasmuch as our citizens are to have the first and only opportunity of listening to Gilbert & Sullivan's latest operatic work "The Yeoman of the Guard or the Merry Man and His Maid." The first production of this opera in London was witnessed by an audience only limited by the capacity of the Savoy Theatre and composed of all swelldom, many of whom came in from the country to listen to the first presentation of these favorite composers latest work. It was a brilliant success and the opera is propounced by far the most beautiful of any yet produced by Gilbert & Sullivan. It is of a grand opera order in the music, but the plot is characteristic of Gilbert & Sullivan's quaint humor and oddities of conception, and it will have a splendid rendering at the hands of the Abbotts artists. As a large audience will be present it will not be very wise to wait until the evening of the production to secure seats.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

Only Meagre Returns Received To-Day—Still Doubtful.

Our dispatches to-day have been of a very meagre character, and we are still without any reliable information upon which to base a conclusion as to the result of the contest in the United States yesterday. The State of Indiana, one of the "doubtful" states, is claimed for the Democrats, while New York is still uncertain. The Republican vote outside of the city of New York has apparently been largely increased over the vote of four years ago, and it is not improbable that the Democratic majorities in the cities of New York and Brooklyn may be swamped by the Republican victories in the rural sections. California has very possibly gone Republican outside of San Francisco, but it appears likely that the vote in that state will be a very close one. The dispatches are conflicting, and there is really no more definite information to-day than there was last evening. The statement that Thurman has given up the contest is doubtless the invention of the Republicans. There is an ominous silence in the Republican ranks, which may mean either confidence in the ultimate result, or the reverse, as the reader interprets it. From all that can be gathered from the telegrams from New York State, the only conclusion that we can come to is that the victory for Cleveland there will not be an overwhelming one, if, indeed, the result does not prove to be a fatal contribution to his overthrow.

Altogether the chances appear in favor of the Republicans, though doubtful states before the election are still doubtful. New York is claimed by both parties. If the Democrats have lost the state all is lost, and certainly the split between the vote for Hill (for governor) and that for Cleveland, looks bad for the President. The Democrats claim Indiana, but conceding that state with New York they still require Connecticut, New Jersey or some other state, seeing that they have lost West Virginia.

Some startling disclosures were made at the investigation before Judge McDougall into the charges of malfeasance of office against officials of Board of Works Department, Toronto.
